

The Bulloch Agricultural Complex will host its Fifth Annual Ag-Grow Expo on February 27 and 28, featuring educational vendors, equipment vendors, and kid-friendly activities. This event is free and open to the public.

On Friday, February 27, educational vendors will provide hands-on learning opportunities focused on the core agricultural products that support our community. Vendors will also demonstrate several types of equipment used locally within the agriculture industry. Friday's activities will not be open to the general public, as this day is reserved for the Ag Discovery Event for Bulloch County Schools sixth-grade students, as well as schools from surrounding counties. This marks the fourth year hosting this educational experience, and organizers are thankful for the opportunity to introduce students to agriculture in an interactive way. Limited space is still available for additional school groups; interested parties are encouraged to contact event organizers at the information below.

On Saturday, February 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., educational vendors, equipment demonstrations, and activities return and will be open to the public. Guests will also have the opportunity to visit and learn more about livestock. The event is excited to welcome back the Georgia Ag Experience trailer on both days, offering another engaging, interactive way for attendees of all ages to explore Georgia agriculture.

"We love hosting this event each year. The citizens of Bulloch County can learn more about agriculture and visit the Ag Arena, which is one of our premier recreational facilities," says Recreation Director Dadrian Cosby.

The event is sponsored by AgSouth Farm Credit, Shea Tractor, Bulloch County Farm Bureau, Tidewater, the Kiwanis Club of Statesboro and many more. "We can bring this event to the community because of our 2026 Ag-Grow Expo sponsors. We are thankful for their willingness to continue supporting this event," says Cosby.
